The bulls at the Red House Test Center were weighted Monday. In 28 days the older bulls gained 3.2 lbs./day. The middle group averaged 3.36 lbs./day and the youngest group 3.04 lbs./day.

This is about as good as we could hope for. Some bulls, of course, went over four pounds a day.

A ton ration is made up as follows:

Corn Silage	1300 lbs.
Rolled Corn	540 lbs.
Soybean Oil Meal	140 lbs.
Salt	10 lbs.
Limestone	10 lbs.

James Bennett, owner manager of the center, tells me that a hasty calculation shows the cost per pound of gain will be under 25 cents.

The first set of bulls will be sold January 27, but you'll be hearing more about this.

The DHIA testing year runs from October 1 to September 30. Now the results are in and it's a good time for you dairymen to use this data as a benchmark for your progress.

I want to compare average production in Virginia with average production in Appomattox County.

	Vir. Appo.
Pounds of Milk	12,745 12,826
Percent Butterfat	3.7 3.4
Pounds Butterfat	475 435
Value of Product	867 848
Feed Cost	314 290
Income Over Feed Cost	553 558

We are right down the middle. Rockingham County has 80 herds on test that averaged 14,196 pounds of milk and 509 pounds of fat.

Dairymen need to keep in touch with how their cows perform and DHIA is the only practical way. Four Appomattox dairymen are using this method.

It's time to get some work done on lawn weeds; right now, but no later than December 15.

Every year in late March and early April the phone starts ringing with the question, "How can I stop chickweed, it's about to take my lawn?" The response has to be "I'm sorry but there's nothing to do now - wait until fall."

There are two kinds of chickweed mouse-eared and common. Both can be found in most lawns.

Silvex gives excellant control when applied properly and at the right time. Actually I like a combination of Silvex and 2,4 D. By using the two you not only take out chickweed, but dandelions and plantains as well.

Pick a day when it's warm, above 65 degrees, and hopefully the wind is still. Remember, be careful when using this chemical around shrubs.

* * *

There are a number of her bicides for crabgrass control in lawns. One that a lot of people like is Betason. It's available as a spray or granular. Now is the time to put it on the lawn. Doesn't hurt the bluegrass or fescue. Warming-it does get costly if your lawn is very large.

CANAAN BAPTIST JUNIOR CHOIR

A large crowd attended the Canaan Baptist Junior Choir Festival last Sunday evening at 3 p.m. Our secretary, Miss Mary Wood, sent invitations to our neighboring churches in which the following church choirs took an active part: Mt. Obed, Springfield, Morning Star, Second Mineral Springs and Mt. Shiloh, with Jordan, Galilee, Peaceful Grove, Alabama, and Gravel Hill all sending donations. The opening song was by the Mt. Obed Junior Choir, Scripture by Miss Mattie Kelso, Prayer by Miss Frances Wood, Welcome address by Little Miss Jacqueline Evans and Response by Mrs. Arabelle McCoy of the Springfield Baptist Church. The offering which was very good was lifted by Deacon McKinley Lewis of Springfield and Deacon Fred Ackers of Canaan. Benediction was by Rev. C. L. Elliott.

We were so very very glad to see our pastor, Rev. C. L. Elliott and to receive such encouraging remarks from him.

We, the members of the Junior Choir, would like to give a special thanks to Mrs. Edith Ferguson who stood in so faithfully for our manager, Mrs. Dorothy Scruggs, who was unable to be present.

IT'S HARVESTTIME . . . BEWARE . . . BE SAFE

Now that corn harvest is under way in Appomattox County, farmers are reminded to "play it safe" when operating harvesting equipment.

This reminder comes from J. P. Alvis, Jr., Chairman of the Appomattox Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee. Fall is a busy time for farmers. Mr. Alvis said, and while one-third of all farm accidents happen during the summer months, another one-fourth happen in the fall.

Not every farm has the latest equipment, the Chairman said, and some of the older pieces of equipment lack some of the advantages of recent safety research develop ments. He said too that many farmers remove protective shields and guards and defeat the efforts of machinery manufacturers to provide safe and efficient equipment.

Mr. Alvis reminds farmers to keep the following safety points of the National Safety Council in mind as they harvest their crops this fall.

- Read and heed the operator's manuals. Keep the manuals handy and in good condition. Follow recommendations on maintenance and operating procedures to get maximum performance, economy and use from your equipment.
- Always shut off the power. Many accidents involve running machines, especially corn harvesters. Stop the machine before you unclog, adjust or lubricate it even to brush or pull out a corn stalk.
- Keep your guards on. Shields and guard are on your equipment for your protection. Never operate without them. Be alert to belts, chains, and gears while you are working.
- Leave the little ones at home. Youngsters like to ride with daddy but riding on or playing near powerful farm machinery is not for small children. Keep them out of work areas.
- Be prepared. Your equipment might be in fine shape but how about you? If possible, avoid operating equipment when you are ill, taking strong medications, are tired, or when worry, emotional upsets and other problems are severe enough to make it difficult to be a safe operator.

Veterans Eligible For Allowance

The Veterans Administration has notified 61,000 veterans who are known to be wearing prosthetic devices that they are eligible for an annual clothing allowance of $150, the Roanoke VA Regional Office announced today.

VA said the new payment was included in Public Law 92-328 approved by the President on June 30, 1972, which also gave a 10 percent cost of living increase to nearly 2.2 million veterans with service connected disabilities.

Veterans who wear prosthetic or orthopedic devices and who for some reason did not receive the VA notice and application forms should write the nearest VA Regional Office if the device is worn because of a compensable service connected injury.

Eligible military retirees must file annually for the clothing allowance before August 1 after this year, but it is not necessary to waive any portion of the retired pay to receive the allowance, VA pointed out.
